Those Who Shape A Nation

"To see life; to see the world; to eye witness great events; to watch the faces of the poor and the gestures of the proud; to see strange things - machines, armies, multitudes, shadows in the jungle and on the moon; to see man's work - his paintings, towers and discoveries; to see things thousand of miles away, things hidden behind walls and within rooms, things dangerous to come to the women that men love and many children to see and be amazed; to see and be instructed" stated Henry R. Luces in the book Prospectus for Life.

To be alive, to exist meant something different to each of us. Moving on day to day, conquering challenges set before us, and looking forward, the future preoccupied us in the seventies. We gained ten years of age whether we went from seven to seventeen or fifty to sixty. To move on looking forward became a main objective. Looking forward, yet reflecting upon past events of the decade has taught us many valuable lessons. An insight was given to us by the knowledge of the actions of few and the reactions of many.

back, and in reviewing those years we found many outstanding leaders. Richard Nixon weathered the storms of Watergate. Upon his resignation Nixon left the position of President to Ford. Restoring the public's view of the government became his main objective. After the presidential election the victor, Jimmy Carter, provided the American people with peanuts and a smile, but most importantly with a fresh attitude.

Negotiations seemed to be the key word as many pending questions were answered. Negotiations between nations dominated, yet the seventies ended with the adoption of the peace treaty between Israel and Egypt still unsigned.

Although many forward steps were made in national affairs the ending of this decade brought a need to look back on the mistakes made. Doing this we often found that we ourselves were to blame.

The ever present need for self acceptance and recognition was displayed by the growing popularity of religious cults. Perhaps, the most prominent display of this involvement was the Jonestown Massacre. Shocking a world wide public the dominance of one man over hundreds of people led us to take a good long look into ourselves as individuals.

Even when it seemed there was no future, no solution to the problems, there was still a time to lose ourselves in laughter. Entertained by such television programs as ALL IN THE FAMILY and MORK & MINDY America took time to laugh. We took time to sing along with the Doobie Brothers, The Eagles, even Kiss and at the end of the seventies with the ever popular Billy Joel. Although we went through many problems we were able to rise above it with a golden attitude; one which can be easily amused by a simple Muppet or just by a simple smile.

The problems of this decade prevailed in our minds, for ten years of our lives are left behind. We captured the memories both good and bad, to be relieved again and again. Now the Seventies seem an intricate part of our lives, yet when another decade passes, before us, these ten years - these precious ten years will be but a moment in time.

STUDENT LIFE

Many faces were seen during the past ten years. Each person different yet all were part of America. Through the toils and strains some brightened the nation with a song and dance. However, there were still those who scarred the country with violent plots. All of this contributed to the highs and lows of the 70's.

The end of the decade took many great people with it. The loss of ELVIS PRESLEY stunned the people and made them realize the magic he possessed. JACK BENNY'S constant call for ROCHESTER has echoed in memories across the continent. The unforgettable "Bah Bah Bah Boo" of BING CROSBY, GROUCHO MARX'S secret word, and finicky MORRIS, the cat, were among others lost. The execution of GARRY GILMORE and the mysterious HOWARD HUGHES left the countryside bewildered.

JOHN TRAVOLTA danced his way to fame, MUPPETS charmed their way to T.V. and SUPERMAN, CHRIS REEVES, flew for attention. Lots of new people helped replace the loss of old masters.

America turned to the automatic age, personalized license plates and turned off VIETNAM. The BEE GEES swept the nation off its feet with their music. Little brother ANDY GIBB was the idol of all young girls.

Many birthdays were celebrated over the years. The UNITED STATES OF AMERICA became 200 on July 4, 1976. MICKEY MOUSE reached the golden age of 50 and more were remembered.

Many oldies but goodies such as JOHN WAYNE, the ever loved cowboy, gleamed in their maturity. GEORGE BURNS turned actor in "OH GOD!", BOB HOPE tickled America with his jokes and MILTON BERLE wrote them down.

BURT REYNOLDS made many movies and proved he was wilder than ever. STEVE MARTIN caught the people off guard with his burst of odd humor. ROD STEWART came alive and blew the country's mind.

All kinds of manias took over, JEEPS four-wheeled their way all across the region. The DISCO CRAZE appealed to all ages and music took on a new sound. OUTER SPACE shocked the public with UFO's sent from unknown places.

All of this was just a small fragment of the previous decade.

The evening began with the music from "Force of Habit" on stage. As the night wore on, our SCA President, Fred Stone introduced the senior class Homecoming Representatives and all other underclassmen appearing on the court. These students danced to a tune in their honor, each keeping memorable visions in their hearts forever. The night under the stars, a truly fantastic event in our time.

SCA Elections

At 2:45 on Wednesday, April eleventh, Scott Musick was officially elected SCA president for the school year 1979-1980.

The candidates tried hard to win by distributing campaign buttons and putting up posters, but the student body could only elect one person for each office who they felt excelled in experience, dedication, and spirit.

The results of the election were: President, Scott Musick; First Vice President, Chris Brown; Second Vice President, Natalie Cascio; Secretary, Beth Fisher; Treasurer, Bruce Layman; and Reporter, Trish Snopkowski.

The curtain went down to standing ovations December eighth and ninth when the Stuarts Draft High School Players presented "The King and I". The excellent cast included Kim Monroe as Anna Leonwens and Andrew Sitter as the King. These two, along with forty-eight other members of the cast, presented the play with such realism that the school auditorium became the Kingdom of Siam for three hours each night.

Other members of the cast included Arlene Roane, David Gibson, Nancy Quillen, Peter Stone, Sam Harris, Mike Hewitt, Doug McCay, Jeff Spooner, Fred Stone, and Paul Harouff.

The play revolved around the incidents of an English school-teacher in the Kingdom of Siam with a very arrogant king as her employer. Children from Ladd Elementary School and Stuarts Draft Middle School portrayed Anna's students to add a real touch to the play.

The musical was directed by Ms. Ferree; the technical director was Mrs. Debbie Glenn. Mrs. Spillman was in charge of costumes and Mrs. Talbott was the music director, with Tammy Holloway as accompanist and Larry Wilson as percussionist.

As Saturday Night Fever and John Travolta swept the nation, discos came alive. The Bee Gee's were flying high with "Stayin' Alive". The Village People were the new disco group. They had two smash hits; "Macho Man" and "YMCA."

The song "YMCA" brought along the dance "YMCA". The "Rock" was the next popular dance to follow. Along with the discos came the new fads. A few of the fads were satin pants, disco skirts, and silk shirts for the guys.

Everyone shook their "groove thing" and, like Rod Stewart, wondered if they were sexy. After the discos, everyone went to McDonalds to hang out or to check out the nice-looking guys or girls.

John Travolta started the disco fever, and it seems that disco will last forever.

The Wrong Show

Everyone came to see the hidden talents of the Stuarts Draft students at the Wrong Show. They all had splendid performances, whether they were gonged or not. The show was full of comedy as well as singing and dancing. There was music from rock bands and bluegrass players. The show was presented on March 23rd and was judged by Mrs. Almarode, Fred Stone, and Mrs. Tolbert. The winners of the contest were James Hall and Terry Holmes. On the drums and guitar, these two boys won the "Wrong Show" trophy.

The Stuarts Draft Sportsman's Club sponsored the show and presented the trophy. The proceeds went towards financing tennis courts at Stuarts Draft High School.

Games Of Skill . . .

Intramural sports began in the fall with volleyball. There were many hard fought games between the teams involved as the games moved on to the finals. The finals ended with the Unknowns emerging as the winners. The team members were, Beth Cleavenger, (team captain), Sadonna Coffey, Michelle McWelch, Tammy Harris, Fred Martin, Buddy Neal, Scott Musick, Peter Buehler.

Basketball started shortly before the end of the fourth marking period. These games were conducted in the form of five men or women teams with three on three competition and two substitutes. In the girls competition Blue Squadron won the finals. The team members were Julianne Ford (captain), Donna Willis, Rosemary Martin, Karen Mattejat, and Rita Johnson. In the boys competition Tops won division title. The members of the team were Harry Vest (captain), Avery Bell, Rocky Diggs, Dwayne Miller, and Leo Harris.

Chess, backgammon, and checkers were played before school and during activity periods. These games required a great deal of patience as they couldn't always be finished in one activity period. This was especially true of chess, where the players tried to find a quiet spot where they might concentrate on their game. Luck was the deciding factor in backgammon since two or three good rolls of the dice could easily decide the game. Checkers took skill in knowing when the player might be better off by sacrificing one of his other men for two or more of the opponents.

Arm Wrestling brought a fair amount of attraction to people who might otherwise have been overlooked. There were two classes (male and female) and three divisions per class (lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight). The contestants were fairly evenly matched as they struggled to overcome or simply hold off their opponent.

Impromptu

On the surface, the play told of four completely different people who had been called together to act out an improvised play in front of an audience. The lights were off; the audience grew impatient, awaiting a play. These four actors were chosen to depict life. In deeper meaning, each told of real feelings in a real world.

This award winning play, Impromptu, directed by Ms. Ferree, received the Distinguished Participant Award.

Actors of the play were Fred Stone, Mary Hewitt, Natalie Cascio, and Dee Willis.

Ride 'Em Cowboy

On April 2, 1979 SDHS held another one of those hilarious Donkey Basketball games. Four different teams were set up to play against each other and work their way to the championship game. Many people were involved in this event ranging from people of the Stuarts Draft community, the FFA, to SDHS, SMHS teachers and students. Even though the donkeys were stubborn, the crowd roared with laughter and the night turned out to be a tremendously funny success.

Step Right Up

To the 1979 SCA Carnival. The proceeds went towards helping build the SDHS tennis courts. We had such activities as band groups playing at different intervals during the day. Another student interest was a baseball game between Stuarts Draft and Wilson with the Cougars winning 9 - 5. Quilting, wood-carvings, painting, and more were some of the arts and crafts demonstrations. Special events featured were FFA Chicken Barbecue, Sportsman's Bingo and Concession Stand. A variety of clubs and classes sponsored different types of booths. The Cake Walk, Coin Toss, and SDMS booth were some of the features.

Class Night

You Must Remember These

The stage grew dark and after a short pause, Fred Stone and Kim Powell appeared; the 1979 Senior's Class Night began. "How many years has it been?", the question was asked. "Eleven," was the answer and so the stage was set for the Senior's production, "What Ever Happened To The Class Of 1979?".

After conquering many obstacles, a group of dedicated and spirited Seniors worked with determination to produce the Class Night, which was presented on June 1, 1979 in the school auditorium. Removing themselves from high school life and placing themselves into the future became the objective of Kim and Fred. Therefore, the years of high school for the Senior class was presented in a reminiscing fashion.

The private jokes, the memorable occasions, the achievements of the Senior class were all presented with much enthusiasm by members of the class. Under the direction of sponsors, Mr. Hamilton and Mrs. Spilman, the efforts of a small group of Seniors were answered with a successful end result.

The ring turning ceremony preceded the show, which included such skits as the Prom, School Discipline, "Couples", Mr. Baxter, Guidance Department, Lunchroom "The Bay of Pigs", and the Mock General Assembly.

Also included in the night was a presentation of the talents of the class, which were in abundance. The Senior members of the Major-ette Squad presented their interpretation of "We are Family" and class members Nancy Quillen, Shelda Mines, Ricky Hall, David Gibson, and Nancy Jo Lyttle presented their singing talents. Valedictorian Arlene Roane showed her musical talent as she played the violin.

An influence of the administrators and teachers was clearly portrayed as Mr. Huffman, Mr. Baxter, Mr. von Seldeneck, and Mr. Duncan were depicted by the students.

The night ended with a tribute to Mr. Joe Duncan, a Senior teacher, and the final song, "We May Never Pass This Way Again". Perhaps the class members never had felt the unity needed by a class, but with the preparation of this production not only came the end result, but a mutual respect between classmates was disclosed.

Graduation 1979

"I Swear It's Not Too Late"

The Baccalaureate Service for this graduating class was held on Sunday, June third. After the welcome by principal, Mr. von Seldeneck, the Invocation was delivered by Nancy Jo Lyttle.

The Concert Choir then entertained the Senior class members and their families that was present. With the culmination of their rendition of "Go Ye Into All The World" the Rev. Malcolm M. Hutton of Mount Gilead Baptist Church in Columbia, Virginia was introduced by Fred Stone.

The Reverend Hutton delivered a message of "God's Plan for Building a Life", emphasizing the need for a self acceptance of one's own emotions and capabilities.

Following Sunday, June third, the obstacles facing Seniors longing for graduation were Exams. For some they were meaningless tests, only serving as a last minute details. For others they were the last chance to show the knowledge they had learned throughout their years in school.

Thursday finally came and with it came more last minute details. Graduation practice took the mornings of Seniors, as afternoons were spent with friends or with families impatiently waiting 8:00.

The time did come though and after reporting to homerooms for the last time the search for close friend dominated the Senior's mind. Preparing caps and gowns and hiding tears the class was led to the gym as the faint cry of "Pomp and Circumstance" could be heard.

Within less than an hour and a half diplomas were distributed and twelve years of study had ended. Tears fell and as they did so did the unity felt by a group of individuals. Each member of the Class of 1979 leaves behind Stuarts Draft with memories of relationships and happenings which can be cherished only by those, who were there, that single moment of time: Graduation.

CLUBS

In the past decade various associations have been formed throughout the nation. There was always a place for someone to belong.

Children could join Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or even the famous "Mickey Mouse Club", yeah Mickey!

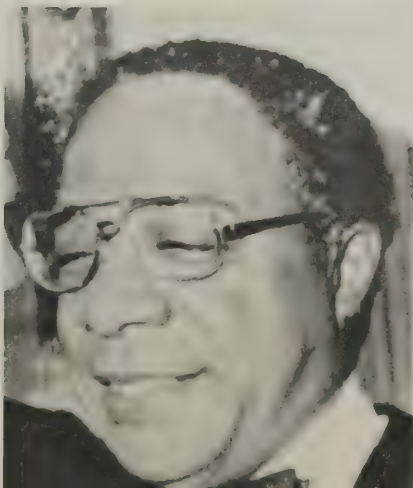

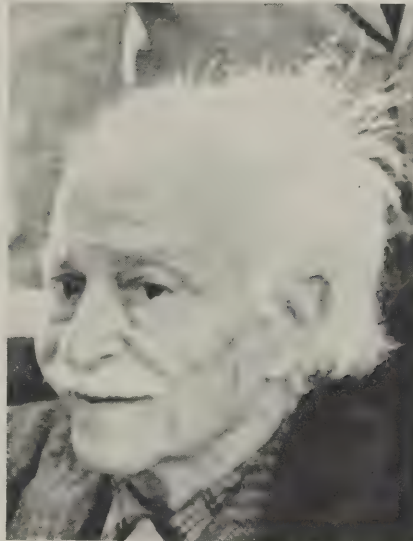

Science organizations reached new heights with the Space program and medical advancements.

Our Government body passed legislature that affected each one of us and debated over controversial subjects such as "ERA".

Music has stood numerous changes throughout the years but there has always been a category to suit each individual's taste. Whether it be, eighty-four year old BOSTON POPS CONDUCTOR, Arthur Fiedler, the band at half time on Saturday football, or the latest in "Disco", a catchy tune was always available to pat your foot to.

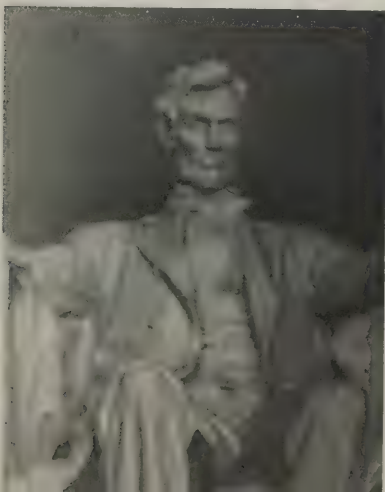

Television never seized to amaze us. While we watched the "Oldies but goodies", like, "I Love Lucy", we were also catching the new audiovisual effects in "Battle Star Galactica". What we didn't realize was that we were witnessing drama skills we could use the rest of our life.

Through these past years, thousands of people travelled to Rome, France, London, and even outer-space. How? By reading a book. Literature was outstanding in supplying everyones fantasy right at the local library and book store. If luck struck we would see a best seller on T.V. such as, Alex Haley's "Roots".

Even though there was a time we all thought Activity Day would be discontinued, the organizations throughout our nation, like the clubs at Stuarts Draft High School, pulled us together and made us one.

“Think Positive”

This year's SCA motto was “Think Positive.” Fred Stone carried this slogan through from SCA elections to the Spring Carnival. SCA became more actively involved in the annual Homecoming Dance, a donkey basketball game, and a Spring Carnival. The Homecoming Dance, organized by Nancy Quillen, featured the band, Force of Habit. Philip Fitzgerald and Gary Sweet pulled together and sponsored the donkey basketball game. The Spring Carnival was a success and the SCA closed the year working together.

Many people heard the constant clatter of the typewriter as the newspaper and yearbook staff worked to meet deadlines. The newspaper staff completed seven issues and the yearbook staff finished another book worth judging.

At the same time, the library club worked diligently selling lollipops to raise money for a new set of encyclopedias. Many library club students visited the elementary schools to read to the children.

Highlights

The language clubs included Latin club which had their annual Italian feast for parents and students. In May the annual "certamen" was held. The highlight of the activities was the movie, "Jason and the Argonauts" and a "classroom quiz".

French clubs activities included Christmas caroling, an international buffet and a skiing trip which got cancelled.

The last language, Spanish, was one of the most active clubs. The members had a carwash with a bakesale at the same time, sold carnations, and had an International festival.

Other active clubs were science club which had several speakers during the year. The usual science fair wasn't held because of students' lack of interest.

The drama club is another very active club with very talented members. Several Drama members participated in the musical, "King and I", which was a big production. "Impromptu", the one act play, got the "Distinguished Participant Award".

SODA, the twenty-four member group, was always working hard with the seventh graders. SODA will not be funded next year due to non-appropriation by the school board but Mr. Hamilton will attempt to keep the club moving.

The National Honor Society is not an active club but an honorary one. Students are honored at graduation by wearing gold cords and gold tassels. These talented students have a 3.50, or higher grade average.

The Forensics club contains very talented members. The club works hard all year long. The areas of the club include girls and boys public speaking, girls and boys prose, girls and boys poetry, spelling, and boys extemporaneous. They lost in their first meet but several members attended the district meet and regionals with success.

Robert VanFossen seems to be enjoying himself helping the Spanish club with the car wash.

Students In Action

TOP: The GAA's concession stand satisfied the hungry Girls Basketball fans.

Future Homemakers of America is a organization open to Home Economic students, which prepares young people to be homemakers. Their motto for the year was "Everyone is a Homemaker". This proved very appropriate considering the singles living class that started this year. The FHA had various activities such as a Fashion Show and a guest speaker from the Calico Bonnet. They also co-sponsored the Sweetheart Dance with the FFA. The theme for the dance was "I Love the Night Life" which the band Staxx played.

Distributive Education prepares students for the world of marketing and distribution. D.E. students attend classes during the morning and are released for supervised on-the-job training in the afternoon. The program of work for the DECA Chapter is based on the four points of their emblem, the DECA diamond: Social Intelligence, Civic Consciousness, Vocational Understanding and Leadership Development. With Mr. McQuain, our school chapter attended Regional and State leadership conferences where they captured numerous awards.

Students for Action in Education was involved in many projects and experiences through the year. First hand experiences and guest speakers helped the organizations members to see what the education field could be like. As in years past, a highlight of the year was spending a day in a classroom environment, which was done at Ladd Elementary School.

The Key Club is a school and community service organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. At chapter meetings, members have the opportunity to hear guest speakers and organize service projects.

The Girls Athletic Association, under the supervision of Mrs. Brown, had an outstanding year. They ran the concession stand for Girls Basket Ball games, collected food baskets at Christmas time for the needy, sponsored intramural games, and sold suckers to raise money for track outfits. At the end of the year they held a Banquet for awarding certificates, pins, and letters.

The Varsity Club, led by Mr. Duncan, was always on top of athletes had little spare time they ran the concession stand at Boys Basketball games and did other activities, including some with the Sportsmans Club.

With all the things accomplished within these clubs it can be said Stuarts Draft has Students In Action.

Spirit . . . Climbing To The Top!

The spirit and enthusiasm within our student body and faculty grew throughout the year tremendously. Everyone got involved and supported the Cougars through thick and thin!

The J.V. and Varsity Cheerleaders were always there with smiles and never-ending pep, boosting the crowd and players all the way, along with the Pep Club.

The band and majorettes were always at football games and parades working hard to represent our school.

The Choral Department worked hard and sounded great as they performed at many concerts and assemblies.

SPORTS

The sport's world was marked by these professionals. Many records were broken and the meaning of the word competition was openly defined. Crowds of thousands packed stadiums, as the ending of The National Anthem signaled the beginning of a football game. A single game that turned the name of O.J. Simpson into a household word. Though the Pittsburgh Steelers emerged as Superbowl champions three times, the competition between the NFL teams, as well as the now defunct World Football League, remained fierce. The umpire's cry of, "Play Ball!" led to the appearance of many baseball greats. While the Oakland A's won the World Series three times consecutively, Hank Aaron was breaking Babe Ruth's long standing record, and the St. Louis Cardinals' Lou Brock was stealing over 118 bases in one season. Their talents flourished, and to the delights of many, shined.

Perhaps the true skill sport, golf, rose in popularity. Such players as Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Ben Crenshaw and Nancy Lopez aided the rise of the popularity of golf.

And as golf followers grew so likewise did the followers of tennis. Connors, Borg, Evert, King and many others enhanced the tennis Scene, as the competition grew extremely fierce.

These people in their own ways gave to us the desire to excel.

Whether it be by the voice of Muhammad Ali or the mustache and medals of Olympic swimmer Mark Spitz, or the shining coat of Triple Crown winner Secretariat, the American population was touched. The old recounted the vitality of youth and the young set their goals. For in the midst of us now, who's to say if there sits a future professional, a future star, a future hero, in the eyes of just one child.

You Must Remember Things - They were moments of triumph and despair; they were tears of exultation and disappointment. They were simple people, no different than any of us who as if by magic were transformed into the idols of many. They were those who set standards for an entire generation of striving.

They were individuals; they were the world of Sports. For the first time in America's history, Americans became involved. They became involved whether as participants or as spectators. The sport's scene became a growing, changing, vital force in the lives of many.

Sports in general flourished, and the need to be a participant over-shadowed the need to be a spectator. The overpowering effect of the sport's scene was clearly felt and all due to those professionals - our idols.

... AND LONG YARDAGE

Forward motion is the key to a victorious J.V. squad as is demonstrated by this player.

"Fourth down and long yardage to go," echoed frequently over the Cougar football field this season. Both the Varsity and J.V. teams plagued by many problems weathered the 1978-79 season which at its conclusion left the Cougar teams with respectable yet disappointing records.

Varsity football took the field with high hopes of a victorious season. Led by Coach Duncan the team of only thirty players were convinced of better things to come as they notched a victory in the first game of the season against Elkton.

Returning home with a win tucked behind spirits soared as the Varsity Cougars prepared the following week for a clash with rival River-heads.

Hopes were disappointed as the Cougars fell to the powerful Gladiators. The following games mounted difficulty for the Varsity team as they were able only to gain two other victories. The Cougars defeated the Luray and Roanoke Catholic teams.

Awaiting the outcome of an opposing play are two Cougar defensive men.

Yardage

Led throughout the season by only five Seniors the team was a relatively young one. Co-captains Chris Hoy and Doug Mc-

Kay provided the team with a moral leadership which proved to be beneficial.

J.V. players sound that familiar call, "We're number one!"

Struggling became the dominating factor for the Cougars as this player shows.

Although the team ended the season with a poor record, Cougar player Fred Martin was recognized as a first team All-County defensive tackle. Also many Sophomores gained experience which should improve their talents for next year. Therefore the season did prove to be a growing experience.

Blending into next year's Varsity squad will be players coming from the J.V. squad. This year's J.V. squad consisted of twenty-four members. They were smaller in size than last year's team yet, larger perhaps in effort and dedication.

Led by Coach Almarode the J.V. team worked hard throughout the season. Their efforts paid off as they ended the season allowing only three teams to score on them. Taking credit for this accomplishment is a group of defensive linemen known affectionately as "The Curtain." Donald Diggs, Jr. Vest, Stuart Brooks, and Dwayne Miller created an awesome line helping the Cougars to obtain a final record of 4-3.

Leftward movement enables this J.V. player to cut downfield for a gain.

Representing Stuarts Draft . . .

With a new coach and a new year the Lady Cougars showed their stuff time and time again. All during their exciting 1978 season the girls worked hard to win the honors they did. This was the first year the Stuarts Draft Girl's Varsity Basketball team had won both Regular Season Champs and District Champs.

The individual awards were passed out to Beth Cleavenger and Sadonna Coffey who made All District First team and All City-County. Julie East and Kathy Snopkowski recieved All District Honorable mention and All City-County Honorable mention.

Julie East carefully concentrates on an extra point for the Draft. Kathy Snopkowski shows her form during a tournament game. Beth Cleavenger has all players in awe while she shoots for two. Michelle MacWelch secretly hides her comments to fellow ball players. Beth Cleavenger holds the basketball and will not let anyone have it. Beth also was named the City-County Defensive Player of the Year. Michelle MacWelch blocks an opponents shot in defense for the Cougars.

Good Attitudes Asset To Season

The way the Lady Cougars felt starting out the season had a lot to do with their success. They must have felt good about the new season, because they really played terrific during the whole year. The members of the 1978 Girls Varsity basketball team: First row, Cindy Harris, manager, Tammy Harris, Cheryl Vorel, Cindy Warren, Tammy Hanger, Michelle MacWelch, and Kim Willis; manager. them. To keep the stats as accurate as possible, which was a hard job sometimes. Here Gary Smith, the team bookkeeper takes time out to blow a bubble. Kathy Snopkowski goes up with the ball while the pressure is on. Stat keepers, Erica Grey, Tammy Van Fossen, and Martha Shumate try to keep up with who made that last shot and who got that rebound. Julie East and Kitty Talbott tightly guard an opponent in hopes of stealing the ball. Beth Cleavenger, over comes an obstacle and scores two more for the Draft.

The Statisticians for the Lady Cougars had a great task placed upon

Proud Of Accomplishments

The entire team was proud of their winnings and they should have been, they labored endlessly on trying to better their game. Cindy Warren, Sadonna Coffey, Michelle MacWelch, and Sandy Clark surround an opponent believing they can confuse her. Beth Cleavenger takes aim on the basket and wishes for addition points. Michelle MacWelch cautiously watches an opponent deciding what strategy to use next.

History Repeats

Again the Stuarts Draft Girl's J.V. Basketball team was number one in the District. Through many hard practices and rules to follow by the Little Lady Cougars proved they were winners. Alertness was the code in wanting to learn to play the game. All of this certainly paid off and showed everyone the talent of these young athletes. Renee Lavender jumps up as her teammates get ready to play some basketball. The J.V. team's high scorer, Renee goes up for two more. She scored 199 points during the season. Donna Harris jumps high to make sure the Cougars get the ball.

JV Girls Really Put Their Hearts Into It!

The total J.V. team worked as professionals to achieve their perfect 19-0 record. Tonya Doyle battles for two points to control the boards. Another skillful player, Lynette Ezell dribbles the ball while planning her strategy. The man in the middle of all this, Coach Walt Cleavenger advises Sara Sullander on a few last minute pointers. Making sure the Little Lady Cougars come out on top, Trish Snopkowski hustles to make a basket.

As some of these players have moved up to next year's Varsity team, Coach Cleavenger said they would be a big asset to the team.

Tonya Doyle, the only returning player to the team next year was the only eighth grader. She played excellent ball for being new to the game. The highest rebounder, Donna Harris, with 146 grabs shows she can score. She also was second highest scorer with 132 points to the Cougar team.

Drying himself off, Coach Cleavenger smiles. He unwillingly took a shower when the Little Lady Cougars won the J.V. Shenandoah District Tournament. At least being thrown in the shower was a good sign for the J.V. Champions.

Coach Bob Maxwell in his first season had many problems to overcome, but with hardwork by the players and patience by all to learn the new system, the big hurdles began to fall. Although not much progress was made in the win-loss column, Coach Maxwell felt great progress was made in changing team attitudes plus the teams play concept was well established.

Coach Maxwell believes next year to be a success, the athletic programs need to develop some over all school pride for all Cougar athletes and to develop the positive winning attitude needed throughout the school.

After long weeks of practice the challenge was finally here. The opposing team, tall and confident, came running out on the court. But we felt by the cheering fans and the encouragement of our

Team Spirit

After a slow start, a 3-6 record after 9 games, the J.V. team started working together. In the last 9 games they were 6-3, finishing third place in the district but were in the thick of the district race until the very end of the season.

Short But Successful Season

This year was a short but successful season as the Stuarts Draft Indoor track team returned to the field after 2 years of absence. With strong determination and dedication both the coach and the team strived to show their competitiveness and ability through their victories.

The team consisted of 32 young men in which 25 lettered. The scoring was led by Seniors, Chris Hoy, and Doug McKay, Juniors, Fred Martin, Buddy Neal, and Levan Ott, Sophomore, Brack Brady, and Freshman, Scott Wellborn.

This year's Cross Country Team faced one of the hardest seasons ever, especially with such a small number of runners. However all the members excelled to their greatest capacity, and their dedication showed the school spirit they possessed.

The aches and pains were felt by all the members whether they were performing long strides on rough, black pavement or practicing day after day on the rugged terrain. Each member wished to be successful and he must for without each, the team could not unite as one.

Runners Unite As One

The Power Of A Bat And A Ball . . .

. . . was surely exhibited by the fifteen man 1979 Varsity Baseball team. Under the direction of Coach Sam Alexander, assisted by Frank Wade, the team by the end of the season was a strong competitive force in district competition.

Facing such district rivals as Riverheads, Wilson Memorial, and Buffalo Gap and such Double A teams as Lexington, Lee High, Waynesboro, and Harrisonburg, the Cougars achieved a very respectable record of 13 - 6 overall and 5 - 5 in district play.

Five pitchers successfully threw for the Cougars throughout the season. Pitchers and their respective records are as follows: Dennis Warren 1-0 and a 8.05 E.R.A.; Timmy Harris 0-1 and a 7.00 E.R.A.; Rusty Holste 2-1 and a 5.17 E.R.A.; Mark Campbell 4-2 and a 4.70 E.R.A.; and Rodney Cullen 6-2 with an E.R.A. of 3.46.

Whether it be a simple scratch of the nose, a simple tug of the hat, or a "Do it for Von" echoing over the field, each in its own way spurred the Cougars on to action.

Very few people realized the time involved in practicing for this year's season. Playing baseball wasn't just hitting or throwing the ball- it was an attitude grasped by the entire team. It was PRIDE in ourselves.

Team Unity Proves To Be A Pathway To Success . . . .

A true feeling of accomplishment was felt by everyone involved with the baseball team. Perhaps, the team did not go as far in competition as was hoped but by no means was the '79 season a disappointing one.

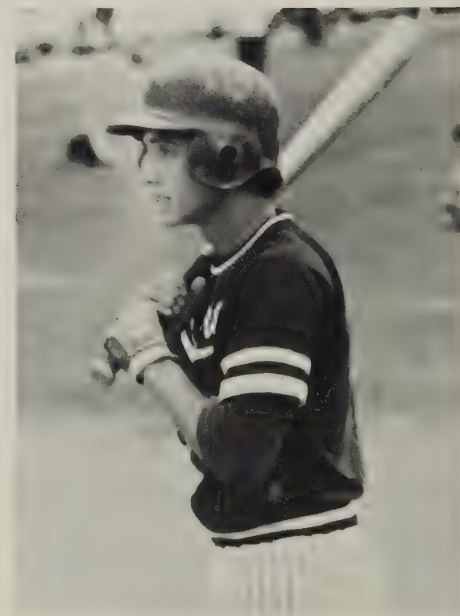

A team composed of fifteen players defeated such strong competitive teams as Harrisonburg and Lee High. By no means did they fall short of the goals set before them.

Prospects for a better season are foreseeable, as only seven players graduate off the team this year. It is hoped through hard work and desire next season will be one of triumph.

J.V.'s Weather Hard Season

This year Stuarts Draft High School fielded a Junior Varsity Baseball team composed of players from the High School as well as the Middle School. Practice and determination, under the direction of Coach Andy Kiracofe proved to be beneficial to all the players.

Although the season was one of disappointment, with the J.V. team unable to notch a single victory, much good was accomplished. Learning to work together, the two groups of students blended well. Divisions between the newly grouped students of Wilson Memorial and Stuarts Draft seemed to vanish.

Next year's prospects look promising as problems that arose were dealt with and talent among next year's players seems abundant. Although this year's season was not a great one in the standards of winning perhaps, the team members learned a more valuable lesson, determination, spirit, and pride.

Junior Varsity Works Together

Togetherness is the key for a victorious team and Stuarts Draft High's Junior Varsity girls and boys track members proved this goal. With two new coaches, Debbie Glenn and Gary King, the pair placed effort on long-distance preparation and sprinting. Long jumping was a favorite event for the young ladies, while the gentlemen preferred the high jump. All of the members, however, tried their knowledge and skill in the various fields, concentrating on their strongest area. Working together-the key to victory.

Victorious Varsity Lady Cougars. . .

Returning with a clan of beginner Varsity runners, the Lady Cougars began the year with determination and togetherness, striving for a common goal - the State Championship. Each participant acquired the exuberance and self-esteem needed for their full capacity as a champion. A glow of accomplishment, a year of happiness, and the feelings of pride progressed through the season, with Coach Bunny Hearn, the leader of them all. The girls captured the Shenandoah District Title, defeating four local high schools entering tough, competitive track members. However, the girls held on and overcame their obstacles, and became a victorious gang for a moment in time. . .

Boy's Varsity: Running To The Top

The 1979 season for Boys Varsity Track was one in which many people took pride in. The boys excelled in every event to achieve a set goal.

The Coach, Nick Wilk, worked with each team individual to overcome their doubts of defeat. The team consisted of Seniors: Chris Hoy, Doug McKay, and David Horning. Juniors: Fred Martin, Buddy Neal, Peter Mattejat and LeVan Ott. Sophomores: Neal Kirby, Kip Deacon, Robbie Morris and Brack Brady. Freshmen, Scott Wellborn. We're proud to say that four team participants went to State. They were Deacon, Kirby, Ott, and Martin.

Most people do not realize the many hours these boys put in practicing. As the saying goes, "Practice makes Perfect!"

Tennis again was a growing force this year at our school. A wide interest developed with a great number of people competing for seats on the tennis team.

At the end of tryouts a team of fifteen people was selected for the co-ed team. A lot of practice working on developing skills prepared the team for competition with district rivals, Fort Defiance, Buffalo Gap, Wilson, and Riverheads.

CLASSES

Throughout the Seventies many changes were undergone. All aspects of our lives were influenced, ranging from the need for entertainment, education, to employment.

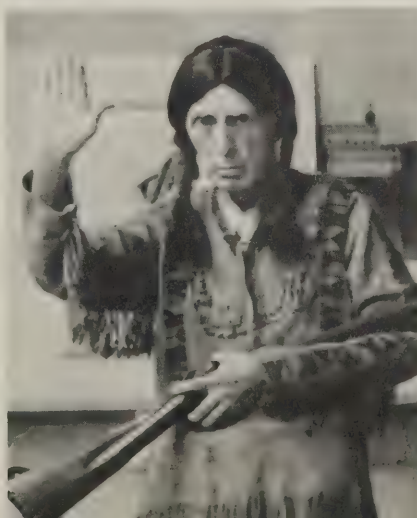

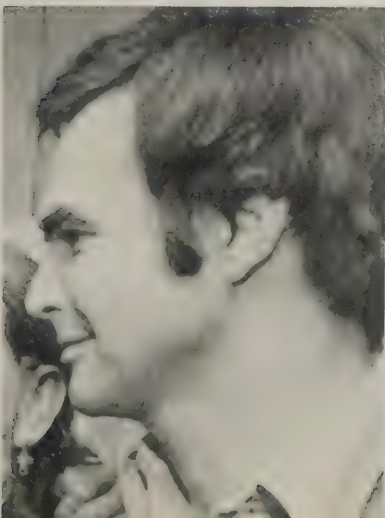

The entertainment during the Seventies went from the Beatles to the Bee Gees, Robert Redford to Burt Reynolds, Mash to Saturday Night Live, and finally to the end of the Carol Burnett Show.

The early Seventies began with the rebelling of teens against schools and society in general. Jesus freaks, Hippies and drop-outs became common. As the decade ended, education and college became an important part of everyone's future. The students were given more rights, and the teachers less, as the open-classrooms and computer teaching were tried.

As inflation rose the need for employment became a major factor to everyone. More and more teens were out looking for jobs, while factories continued to lay off workers. The major goal of all students was to become self-supportive and buy their own car.

Aspects of life seemed to remain the same as the years proceeded; however, each became more, involved and complicated. Life's pace became faster, and the need for success became a main objective for all students, and ultimately, became an accomplishment.

Senior year was more than just classes. It was a year in which to decide what to do in the future. Whether it was plans for college, getting a job, or getting married, it was a decisive year for all. For the Seniors who were college bound, it was a year of deadlines, applications, scholarships, and the agonizing wait to see to which college they were accepted.

But somehow amidst all the confusion there was time for fun. Being a Senior seemed to invite more freedom and unofficial prestige. The many activities sponsored by the Seniors such as Slave day, the Christmas dance, and Class night all proved their school spirit.

School spirit was not always at its highest but with the struggles the Seniors learned strength and courage. As a Senior you looked back at the past and looked forward to the future with great anticipation. With Graduation comes the beginning of a new decade and new maturity for the Seniors. Though the past is filled with many memories, the years spent at SDHS are but a moment in the span of a lifetime.

Most of the Seniors gathered in the library before homeroom every morning. They swapped stories, rumors, and even homework. Math seemed to be the hardest subject to understand. Trigonometry and Calculus were easy in comparison with simple addition. Even the Senior class President, Lisa Galloway, still added "big" numbers with her fingers.

Natalie Cascio and Scott Musick were the students chosen this year to attend the Governor's School for the Gifted. Over six hundred students from all over the state applied for the School. Only four hundred and twenty four students were elected from this group. To even be considered for the School, one must first be nominated from their school. These special classes were offered only to rising Juniors and Seniors.

The general classes offered were the Fine Performing and Practical Arts, the Humanities, the Natural and Physical Sciences, and the History and Social Sciences.

Natalie planned on taking Art and Literature while Scott planned on Literature and Political Science.

The School ran during the summer and the students attended for one month. All of this was offered to these students for free. It gave them an excellent opportunity to learn more about a specialized class they were interested in. It was a fine chance to any student lucky enough to have received the honor of attending the Governor's School for the Gifted.

Working Hard

Junior students studied diligently for their exams. They stayed up into all hours of the night trying to be assured of good grades. It was hard to give up their free time to dedicated days of study.

Junior Jobs

Mrs. Diane Hickson, a representative of the Youth Employment Service, (YES) gave a presentation to the Juniors. The discussion included how to apply for a job, how to go for a interview, and how to get hired.

Mrs. Hickson told the Juniors what employer's liked and disliked in their employees. This information could be useful to get summer jobs as well as for the future.

Mrs. Hickson was employed at the Virginia Employer Commission. She worked this summer in helping many teenagers get a job. She hoped that more teenagers would ask for assistance this summer.

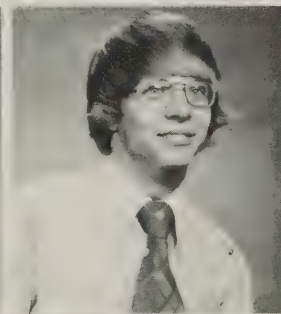

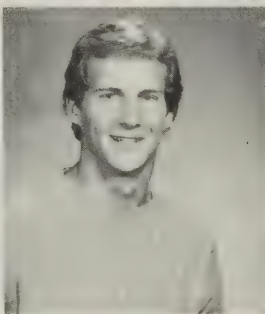

Love was in the juniors hands when they recieved their class rings. The frequent exchanging of rings could often be seen. The ring they had waited for since eighth grade, was now a reality.

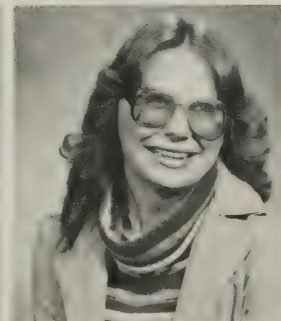

Excitment had been everywhere when they ran for their rings and proudly showed them off. Discussions over the different styles and the new dinner ring rapidly spread. Until, ironically most of them were given away to their sweet-hearts the next day.

With a cheer and a smile, a hello and a goodbye, the class of '81 would win your heart. A class combined of talents, special personalities, athletes and Cougar boosters made the year breeze by without so much as a frown. At times the going was rough, but many students helped the others through their troubles with patience, or stood by them, fighting for a principle. A time for enjoyment, a time of togetherness, a moment of happiness. These major items made a sophomore's year worth all the while . . .

Sophomore Spirit

This year's sophomores exploded in spirit. At every game the sophomore class had the biggest turnouts. We took pride in our teams and never gave in.

One reason for this was our theme for the homecoming Float, "Sophomore Spirit". A lot of hard work went into the making of the float. This brought an urge of excitement into the tenth grade class and from then on we kept up our enthusiasm and confidence in our teams.

The tenth grade class sold ribbons to promote spirit in the areas of football and girls basketball. The ribbons read: "Stomp 'em", and "Zonk 'em".

The class of '81 continued to show their spirit and pride in every event throughout the year.

It's Finally Time!

Every year each Sophomore looks forward to taking their first driving lesson. Each student has to sit in the classroom and listen to the teachers give instructions and the basic fundamentals about driving. Some students are older which gives them the privilage of driving first. But some unlucky students still have to wait until their turn comes, which seems to take forever. Yet every students gets his chance to drive. Then finally, you can cruise around the town without your parents sitting next to you. However, all the waiting seems to be worthwhile.

Junior Varsity players Kim Deacon and Dewey Laymen dress appropriately for the upcoming game.

While walking down the corridors of Stuarts Draft High, isn't it nice to see so many sophomores dressed in ties, blazers, dresses and other nice attire? Perhaps the reason for this is the majority of athletics at our school are composed of students from the class of '81. Over fifty percent of the Varsity Boys Football and Basketball programs were made of tenth graders, while Junior Varsity action had a large number of sophomores, too. Many talented tenth graders contributed their talents to the track, baseball and tennis teams, and of course, the JV Cheerleaders, nine of which could be found supporting their class of '81. So, support was given to the body of the school; the class with class . . .

The freshmen stayed active with school life the entire year. It seemed as if they would never end their struggle to keep busy.

The ninth graders were seen and heard at every sporting event, bringing with them the longest chain of spirit links, showing their spirit in style. The youngest class traveled door to door selling gift wrap, spent many hours working on a successful Sadie Hawkins disco with the Tenth graders, and a Homecoming float entitled "Grease", all which was well worth their time. Overall, the Ninth grade was busiest in promoting spirit.

Youngest Again

As the year started, the ninth graders soon noticed that they were again the youngest class. The happening was brought about by the newly-built Middle School. For the first time there was no eighth grade class at Stuarts Draft.

Even though it did present some problems, one ninth grader was heard to say, "I really don't mind as long as it doesn't happen again!"

Freshmen Get Involved

The class of 1982 found themselves involved in junior varsity and in some varsity sports. Freshmen provided leadership as well as talent. The following freshmen received letters: Scott Wellborn, football; Howard Deaver, cross country; Grady Lambert, cross country; and Mark Schlegel, cross country. Also Sarah Forbes, was the only ninth grade cheerleader. Through after school practices, games till midnight, and three mile runs, the freshmen held up through it all.

ADVERTISEMENTS

A familiar face to everyone was Charlie Brown. He and a community of friends could be found on billboards, posters, and T-shirts. Using a well-known, imaginary figure was just one of the many gimmicks advertisers used to catch the buyer's eye. Advertisers wanted to use something that people would recognize and relate to. When a person spotted Charlie Brown he had the irresistible urge to see what message Charlie Brown was trying to get across. Charlie Brown was a character that everyone could feel close to at one time or another.

"Billy Beer" was one item that many people bought not for the taste but for the name itself. In the opinion of some people, Billy Carter put out his beer to publicize his own name and also for a quick get rich scheme. It wasn't one of the biggest beer sellers, but it allowed Billy Carter to have the spot light if only for a moment.

Besides the attention of adults, the advertisers also had to appeal to the younger age group. This this age group did not understand the fancy words that promoters used or how easily it was to be tricked into buying an unnecessary item. The promoters instead had to lower their level of comprehension.

Big Bird, a character off of the children's show "Sesame Street" was often used to alert children of a toy they couldn't live without. In this simple way of publicity children could easily be sold.

Posters were one of the most popular ways of advertisement. They were to the point, inexpensive, and could be transferred from wall to wall very easily. These posters showed John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John, and Pope John Paul II. The poster of the movie stars was a practical way to publicize the movie "Grease". The convenience of the posters was a major reason why advertisers used them as a main source of publication.

A Special Farewell To A Very Special Lady . . . .

With another year of school at Stuarts Draft High School gone by, the 1979 Legacy Staff would like to take this opportunity to extend our best wishes and final gratitude to a lady who has been of utmost importance to us through many years. A lady of devotion, taking upon herself as many burdens as the staff itself. A woman of humor and love of laughter, of patience, of understanding and of encouragement when all others began to give up their hopes of success. But mostly, a person of specialty who none other could replace no matter how great they may be. With this thought in mind, the Yearbook Staff bids a sweet but sorrowful farewell to our advisor, and dearest friend, Mrs. Ann Roller who is leaving teaching for motherhood.

Thoughts To Remember . . .

The end of the year was filled with mixed emotions. We were anxious for school to be out, but sad to leave our friends.

We left behind memories that will never be destroyed, but will last forever. We left a part of ourselves.

We viewed the year. It stirred our emotions, but we realized it was just a moment in time.

A Moment Remembered Always

As the closing of the year came upon us we began to realize what we were leaving behind. The time had come to start living our dreams. Ahead of us was an open door, which each individual had to approach. We made plans for the future, setting our goals, using our talents, all to the best of our knowledge. As we sought our direction, we realized that we would never forget the experiences of that year, 1979.

*We Extend Our Appreciation To The News Virginian For Allowing Us The Use
